

Bankers' Association Deal With Farm Problems

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Canada's financial ability to handle her war effort without upset to the national economy is bounded "only by the volume that can mechanically be produced," declared H. T. Jaffray, President of The Canadian Bankers' Association here today, addressing the 40th annual meeting of that body. He based this conviction upon the strength revealed in the position of the chartered banks at the end of the first year of the war, as well as upon the extent of the country's material, natural and financial resources.

Highlights of Speech
"A nation's war effort," said Mr.

Jaffray, "must, in the final analysis be governed by its financial strength." A sharp condemnation of suggestions for inflation or "funny money" featured the speech. Other highlights included a warning that taxation if carried to extremes could, by its impact upon inventories, produce all the privations of deflation; an expression of decided confidence in regard to the wheat problem; a declaration that in view of the part played by Canada's mines in supporting the nation's wartime buying strength, governments should give every encouragement to mines to increase their production. Mr. Jaffray had no misgivings that Canada's purchases of materials and equipment from the United States must be reduced. He paid high tribute to the work of the Bank of Canada and the Foreign Exchange Control Board, and expressed confidence in the Empire's ultimate triumph over Hitlerism.

Banks After Year of War

Dealing with the effect of the one year of war on the position of the chartered banks, the bankers' President stressed their ability to finance the requirements of their customers in war effort until victory, without curtailing the legitimate requirements of their customers for ordinary purposes. During the one year of war deposits of all kinds in the chartered banks had increased by $46 million and now stood at $3,142 million as of August 31st, 1940. Balances with the Bank of Canada, cash and other immediately available assets had decreased from 22 per cent of total deposit liabilities to 19 per cent. In the same period—"a moderate decline indeed," commented Mr. Jaffray.

Current loans to the public at August 31st this year had reached $939 million—an increase of $113 million in actual financial assistance being extended to customers throughout Canada. Bank holdings of short term, high-grade Dominion and provincial government securities, all maturing within two years, has risen from $443 million at the outbreak of the war, to $700 million at August 31st this year. In the same period long dated similar securities had dropped from $743 million to $604 million. This meant that to the extent of approximately $140 million the banks swung from longer to shorter date securities to maintain a thoroughly liquid position and to aid in the additional financing of war contracts and other business. Notes in circulation of all banks showed no increase. Bank of Canada circulation was up $127 million—$15 million of this increase being held by the chartered banks; the balance was not in excess of the day-to-day requirements of the country's increased volume of business. Mr. Jaffray cited the above figures as indicating the ability of the banks to handle the war effort requirements of industry.

Can Carry War Program

Turning to the ability of the country as a whole to handle its war effort he pointed out that government war orders—some $5,000 in number—placed up to the end of September, totalled $500 million—$410 million on Canadian account, $140 million on British account. The figures covered all purchases of munitions, aircraft, armaments, food and clothing and did not include soldiers' pay or the $235 million of plant expansion which with other items brings Canada's war commitments and expenditures to date up to something over a billion dollars.

To finance this program war loans had raised $500 millions of new money; taxation and other revenues had provided the rest. "With the ever increasing development of our natural resources, a favorable export trade balance of nearly $200 million a year—(it was $45 million for the three months of June, July and August last), and with a considerable part of war expenditure in the form of wages finding its way into the hands of individuals, and available to some extent for subscription to further Dominion loans," Mr. Jaffray continued, "I am firmly convinced that Canada can handle its war effort limited only by the volume that can be mechanically produced, and without upset to our national economy."

Would Encourage Mines

Commenting upon suggestions that an adverse balance with the United States might operate to restrict Canada's purchases in that country, Mr. Jaffray pointed to the adverse balance of imports over exports for June, July and August amounting to $65 million. He added: "but these figures do not include interest payments abroad nor the revenue of tourist traffic, nor do they include gold shipments. The first two are not greatly out of balance, and as the total value of our gold production for the same three months exceeded $51 million, available if needed to balance the account, coupled also with the accumulation of American assets in our form or another controlled by Canadians and which can also be drawn upon, if necessary, to support our war effort, I cannot share in these misgivings, but I think the figures do emphasize once more the enormous value of our mineral production, and stress the view that every encouragement should be given by our Government to our mines to increase production."

Inflation and "Funny Money"

"From time to time," he continued, "we hear suggestions to the effect that Canada should resort to inflation, or to one kind of 'funny money' to finance this war. I cannot too strongly condemn any such suggestions as not being in the best interests of the country, and because such experiments must inevitably carry with them an aftermath of depression. Labour of every kind is doing its part in the war effort in a wholehearted manner, working long hours, waiving holidays, and in contributing both by its efforts and with its earnings to the country's need. To resort to any expedient that would bring to the working man at the end of this war another period of depression, is beneath the consideration of a country such as Canada, and I can only think that those who advocate such proposals cannot realize what the results would be. There is only one way in which to finance this war, and that is by taxation up to a level beyond which it would ruin its own purpose, and over and above by borrowings, to be paid from the development of our limited natural resources over a period of time."

Extreme Taxation Unwise

"Perhaps I might develop for a moment the question of taxation—which, if carried to an extreme, may produce results not greatly different from the aftermath of inflation. With the increased volume of turnover in nearly all business, it is inevitable that heavier inventories must be carried and bought further in advance. The present rate of taxation leaves to the manufacturer, wholesaler, and other, little margin for increased profit, and little opportunity to set up proper reserves against these increased inventories. It seems to me that the Government, in assessing for taxation should take this factor into consideration, as it would be regrettable indeed if, after the war, the businessmen of the country were faced with the necessity of reducing these inventories and, with inadequate reserves against them, a situation of deflation with its accompanying suffering and unemployment were brought about even where there had been no inflation."

Wheat No Detriment

Mr. Jaffray then touched upon the wheat situation, refusing to regard the West's large crop as a detriment, "rather than a blessing." It had produced financing and storage problems which another crop might even accentuate, "but in spite of this, I would say that it is my conviction that this national wealth added to the country is a tremendous asset, and that in the long run every bushel of grain that we grow will be needed, but it is possible that for the next year or two a percentage of them switching from wheat to feeding grains may be in the best interest of our farmers."

Mr. Jaffray denied any impression that bank earnings are largely increased as a result of war. Notwithstanding higher current loans, federal taxation had practically doubled provincial taxes had not been reduced, and any small margin of added earnings that might be left to the banks would not be too large to provide for unavoidable losses in the after-war industrial adjustment. "I cannot see where the banks stand to gain," said the President.

Prudential Bank of Canada
Touching the Bank of Canada and the Foreign Exchange Control Board, Mr. Jaffray declared that they had both done an efficient job and if, particularly in the realm of exchange control, individuals considered their personal liberties infringed, I would only say to them that nothing has

ADVERTISING ---

A retail store regards itself as being a public servant. Therefore, it is wholly fitting that it should try to be the best and most eager servant possible. A retail store which hides itself from those whom it wants to employ it becomes under-employed, and so its sales decline.

The public inclines in largest numbers toward those stores which seek its attention and custom. It takes the advertising store at its own valuation. It likes to do business with those who manifest eagerness to serve it. It likes to buy at those stores which have to renew their stocks frequently.

Advertising is just communicating news and information about one's store and service. It is just a form of talking. It is those who talk who are listened to. Silent stores lose out to stores which carry on conversations—in the form of newspaper advertisements—with those whose custom they want.

Any retailer who wants to get more customers—for the replacement of customers who become lost to him, and for the expansion of his business—can surely get them by making his store important in their eyes, and by putting in his advertisements the kind of information which will help buyers come to decisions.

Our advertising department is ever willing to help retailers prepare the right kind of advertisements—free assistance, of course.

A CHALLENGE TO CANADIANS

EMERGENCY CALL!

From the shores of our Motherland comes an appeal for help which no true Canadian can fail to heed. While we live in comfort, death drops on that embattled island. The need for Red Cross assistance is urgent. Our sons and brothers are over there. On land, at sea, in the air, they face death daily. We must be prepared to help them when they are sick or wounded.

Red Cross help is needed on behalf of soldier and civilian alike. Hospitals and hospital equipment, surgical supplies and dressings, ambulances and X-ray equipment will be needed. Overwork, if need may become so urgent that lives may be sacrificed if help cannot be sent at once.

Never before has there been so great a need for Red Cross assistance. This challenge to humanity must be answered. Give to the Red Cross. Give to the utmost NOW!

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

As more men are called out for military training and service, large numbers of women are being absorbed

to the state, and shall not be merely the pawn of a monarch or of a dictator, was first invented by Solon the Greek in the year 594 B.C. and was actually put into practice as a system of government in Athens—with a deliberative assembly which sat continuously throughout the year to design the laws—and to govern the country—in 508 B.C.

This system of democracy was eventually lost by the Greeks, but the English won it back for the common people when King John was obliged to sign the great Magna Carta at Runnymede on June 15th, 1215.

Today, these dearly won rights and liberties are again in danger, and it seems more than a mere coincidence that the Greeks who originally discovered democracy and put it practically to work, and the English who restored it to the world, should be fighting side by side to maintain these precious rights of the individual; and fighting moreover on the very same Grecian soil and seas where democracy was won originally by the Greeks in 504 B.C., or 2,443 years ago.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Australia's wheat crop for 1940 is 125 million bushels less than last year. Recent Chinese purchases of North American flour have been very heavy—it is estimated that 13.5 per cent. or 107 million bushels of 1940 wheat crop will be fed to livestock in the U.S.

Following factors have tended to lower price: Harvesting of corn has made good progress in the Balkan countries. Cultivation for winter wheat crops in the U.K. is progressing satisfactorily. Seeding of wheat is now well under way in India. New wheat crop prospects in the Argentine continue favorable.

REPAIR THE FARM MACHINERY

In western Canada where the growing season is so short, all farm operations must be done as quickly as possible from the time work begins on the land until the crop is harvested in the fall. In order that this may be accomplished, all implements should be kept in good repair, says M. J. McPhail, superintendent, Dominion Experimental Station, Melfort, Sask. Very often valuable time is lost during rush seasons for the reason that the machines were never checked over between seasons. Such delays often mean the difference between profit and failure in the year's operations.

The rush season of 1940 is over and the weak places on the various machines are still fresh in the mind of the operator. It is therefore an opportune time to go over all the machines and replace worn parts and repair and tighten up others. Further, blacksmiths are generally not so busy in the winter. These men will appreciate having the work brought to them now so that they will not be rushed so much during the summer.

It seems fitting indeed that Great Britain and the Greeks should be standing side by side defending Democracy against a common enemy. Democracy, or those principles of freedom and liberty which insist that the individual citizen is superior to the state, and shall not be merely the pawn of a monarch or of a dictator, was first invented by Solon the Greek in the year 594 B.C. and was actually put into practice as a system of government in Athens—with a deliberative assembly which sat continuously throughout the year to design the laws—and to govern the country—in 508 B.C.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

Dr. R. W. Neathy, Director, Agricultural Extension, North-West Line Elevators Association

Farmers often have occasion to find out how much grain is contained in a granary or bin. It is also useful to know how large a bin must be to hold a certain quantity of grain. The necessary information is included here so the reader should cut this out of the paper and keep it handy.

The first step is to find the cubic contents of the bin. For square or rectangular bins, the number of cubic feet can be found by multiplying the length x width x depth. For round bins multiply the radius x radius x 3.14 x depth (the radius is one-half the diameter).

For example, suppose our bin is 8'16" and the grain is 8 feet deep, then:
8'16" x 708 cubic feet.

Then if we have a round bin 16 feet in diameter (radius 8 feet) with the grain 7 feet deep:
8'16" x 7' = 1,408.72 cubic feet.

In order to convert cubic feet to measured bushels, it is only necessary to multiply by 0.8. Therefore, our first bin contains 708 x 0.8 = 566.4 bushels. Our second bin contains 1,408.72 x 0.8 = 1,126.98 bushels.

If it is desired to determine the number of bushels by weight, simply multiply the figure for measured bushels by the actual weight per bushel, and divide by the legal weight (wheat, 60 lb.; barley, 48 lb.; oats, 34 lb.). If, in our first example, the grain was wheat, weighing 60 lb. per bushel, we would have 566.4 x 60 = 33,984 bushels.

Problem: What would be the dimensions of a bin you would build for 2,000 bushels of barley weighing 52-lb. per bushel?

ARE YOU A SLEEP-WALKER?

(By William M. Jeffers, president Union Pacific Railroad—reprinted by permission.)

I was sitting in my business car one day, shortly after I had been elected president of our railroad, when the locomotive engineer—a wise old head whom I had known for years—came back to see me. A new brake valve on the engine was sticking, he said, and causing him to make some rough stops.

I was very busy at the moment, writing an important telegram, and I only half heard what he had to say. My replies to him were hazy. He lost patience.

"Damn it, Bill," he exploded, "don't let yourself get so busy on this new job that you haven't got time to think."

His words brought me up with a start and I have remembered them ever since. A railroad president who doesn't take time to think is of no more real value to his company than a licker of stamps. He may keep very busy but he isn't really doing very much. The same holds true for any person who blindly follows a given routine day after day without thinking about what he is doing. He is on a treadmill which will take him nowhere. He is sleep-walking. Let me illustrate thinking as opposed to sleep-walking:

Not long ago, our railroad added club cars for women to certain trains. These cars were equipped with every convenience and luxury for women travellers that our engineers, designers and interior decorators could think of. Every appointment seemed in perfect feminine taste. Yet, soon after these cars were put into service, a veteran Negro porter showed me a glaring flaw in the furnishings.

"Boss," he whispered deferentially, through the encircling Nazis, that they offered the most desperate resistance, and that it was due to that resistance that scores of thousands of French troops were enabled to evade the Nazis pliers, though, as events proved, only for the time being.

The implication of Colonel McCormick's remarks that the British deserted the French and yielded almost without resistance is one of the most disconcerting aspects of the war as we have brought into public print, even if we include the appalling immodesty of the German press. It is also, so far as we are aware, unique on this continent.

FEW KNOW ALL WORDS OF WAR'S MOST POPULAR SONG

During the past several months the song which appears to be growing more and more popular is one composed as a patriotic war song and now sung almost universally throughout the British Empire as 'The National Anthem'. By now most citizens have learned the tune and can hum the refrain with ease, but like a great many other really good and patriotic airs, the words are unfamiliar to many. Therefore, we reprint the words of one of the finest patriotic airs this country has ever known:

"There'll Always Be An England"

I give you a toast, ladies and gentlemen,

"May this fair land we love so well

In dignity and freedom dwell"

The words may change and go away

While there is still one voice to cry—

"There'll always be an England

While there's a country lane;

Wherever there's a cottage small

Beside a field of grain.

There'll always be an England

While there's a turning wheel

A million marching feet.

Red, white and blue, what does it mean to you?

Surely you're proud, shout it aloud,

Britons awake,

The Empire too, we can depend on you.

Freedom remains, these are the chimes, nothing can break—

There'll always be an England

And England shall be free,

If England means as much to you

As England means to me.

been done which is not in the best interests of the country, and of the freedom of the world, and that their individual inconveniences are a minor matter."

Sure of Victory

Mr. Jeffery closed with a note of confidence in the ultimate victory. He said: "In the mind of those of us who have some faint conception of the enormous assets, real and potential, of the British Empire, and with the resources of other friendly nations, including our neighbors to the South, at our disposal, there can never be a moment's doubt as to the final outcome. Once these are converted into one huge machine bent on crushing our enemies, the end will come, and come speedily, and the last vestige of Hitlerism will be wiped from the face of the earth. Let us hope that they will not be too long postponed and that when it comes, it will only be the dawn of a happier world."

Poultrymen's Plebiscite Re: Great Britain's Eggs

Great Britain wants to buy Alberta eggs, but before that market can be supplied, Alberta producers must be in a position to guarantee in advance, that stipulated volumes of eggs will be available at stated times.

In other words, Alberta's surplus egg supplies must be coordinated in order to facilitate shipment to Great Britain. Furthermore, methods of grading must be improved.

Last spring, representative poultrymen met in Edmonton and asked the Department of Trade and Industry to help them prepare an egg marketing plan. They set up a working committee which drafted the plan and are now ready to submit it to egg producers of the province for their approval.

The plebiscite will take place during the week of November 25th, at meetings which have been organized in more than 100 centres. Poultrymen who will explain the plan and, at the close of each meeting, a vote will be taken, all poultrymen with 50 birds or more being entitled to cast a ballot.

Poultrymen are urging all those interested in producing eggs to attend meetings in their districts and to vote in order that the expression of opinion as indicated by the ballot will be truly representative.

TRUCK OWNERS' ATTENTION

Numerous trucks are being operated in Wainwright and district under P.S.V. license whose owners are not complying with Section 44 as 2 which provides that the owner's name MUST be painted in legible letters on each side of the vehicle, and as 4 further states that the owner's name MUST be kept well painted, clean and legible at all times.

Owners of trucks who are not complying with this Section are reminded that this matter MUST be attended to at once, or the law will be enforced against them.

Many motor vehicle drivers, who are producers of eggs, are also engaged in the business of carrying the requisite lights on their vehicles—cars and trucks alike.

No Protest Yet From Alta.

Ottawa—Officials of the Department of Pensions and National Health on Friday night last said so far as they knew, no formal communication had been received from Alberta protesting against cases of men discharged from the Canadian Active Service Force having to be put back on direct relief.

In Edmonton, Hon. W. W. Cross, minister of health and relief, said at least a dozen cases had been reported in that province.

Officials said that because of the increased demand for labor due to expansion of war industries, men discharged from the C.A.S.F. because of minor physical disabilities had reported little difficulty in getting work.

However, they said the whole matter of rehabilitating discharged men now is under consideration by the government.

SHERLOCK HOLMES MYSTERY MELODRAMA

Every whit as good, and on some counts reflecting improvement over its predecessor, "The Hound and the Baskervilles", this Monday-Tuesday-Wednesday picture at the Elita "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" augurs well for a long distinguished and profitable series of Sherlock Holmes-Doctor Watson adventures. Atmospherically authentic and produced on a top scale, it is packed with sufficient suspense, thrills and dry English humor to warrant top rating on any programme.

Clear-cut characterizations are contributed by Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce, repeating in their respective roles, Holmes and Watson roles, while George Zucco, as professor Moriarty, the arch-criminal of all time, is an ably villainous foil.

AMONG THE OLD-TIMERS

REMINISCENCES OF OTHER DAYS

TEN YEARS AGO

Mrs. Adams was ill during the past week with an attack of pneumonia.

The Bank of Montreal opened their new premises on Monday morning.

Gordon Challenger was brought to the local hospital from Edgerton to undergo an immediate operation.

The four-day Chautauque festival ended on Saturday evening. An outstanding feature of the affair was the "rag bag" parade staged among the school children. Prizes went to Annie Wyllie, Irene Dundas, Billy Manners and George Leroux.

Mr. Fred Dzus, a farmer of the Hope Valley district, was brought to town suffering from a broken arm.

On Friday, while starting a tractor used in threshing operations, Ross La Frances of Gilt Edge had the misfortune to suffer extensive injuries when the machine back fired. He was struck on the lower face with the crank and suffered a lacerated chin, injuries to the jaw bone and several teeth were broken off.

Mrs. John Blason, sr. passed away on Tuesday of last week.

The Ven. Archdeacon Tackaberry, of Edmonton, was the special speaker at St. Mary's Anglican church on Sunday evening last. A good congregation turned out in his honor, and had the privilege of listening to a highly interesting sermon, which dealt mainly with the future of the church of England in Canada. He explained that from this time forward, no financial help would be accepted, though offered—from the mother church in England, in view of the enormous burden the present conflict has imposed upon everyone in the Homeland. In closing, the Archdeacon assured his listeners that he entertains no doubt whatever, about Anglicans throughout the Dominion rallying to the cause, as they have done in the past when the necessity has arisen, and never in church history has the need for concerted action been greater than it is today.

We like the latest story going the rounds of the British navy which we heard over the radio; and in case you missed it here it is. The American sailors like whiskey; British sailors prefer rum; but the Italians stick to port! Subtle, isn't it? But indeed very true!

The Gilt Edge Guild held their annual meeting on Thursday last at the home of Mrs. Ed. Goddard.

We are sorry to report little Dave Gardiner on the sick list and hope he will soon be back at school again.

Mrs. J. Templeton and Mrs. Armstrong, two of the oldest pioneers in Wainwright district are welcomed back to our community after having spent the last twenty-five years in Almont, Ont. They have come to reside permanently with the former's son, Mr. Mac Templeton.

NATIONAL FILM COM. LOSSES SISTER AND FILM

Ottawa—Miss Ruby Grierson, sister of John Grierson, Canada's National Film Commissioner, was lost together with much of the film taken by her in England, and aboard ship, when the Benares, carrying refugee children was torpedoed without warning by a German submarine and sunk. Fifty-three children perished in that disaster.

Miss Grierson, an experienced director in the British public information department had been commissioned by the Canadian Film Board to make the refugee subject for the next regular release in the government "Canada Carries On" series. She had taken some of the shots in Britain, and others of the children on the City of Benares before a more tragic episode ended her work, her life and the lives of many of the children who took part in the real and screened drama.

The lost film was dated to be shown last week at the Elita theatre

CHAPTER XV

"I will. Thank you very much." And Audrey made her escape with some confusion.

When Olive Castle went down stairs to have her "understanding" little talk with her father, she found Mr. Harrison alone in his library, seated in an easy chair reading a scientific magazine. He seemed unaware of her presence until she uttered an abrupt, "Daddy!"

"Yes!" He did not raise his eyes, but his daughter lost no time in coming to the point.

"Will you please tell me what all this is about Jeffrey? He has been telling me some fantastic story about starting to work for you. As a beginning salesman! It's positively ridiculous! Starting out that way."

"I don't see why, my dear. He admitted to me that he knew nothing about the business. On that basis, I could scarcely start him as a department head." Harrison inverted his magazine on his lap, reached for his pipe lying on the table, and lighted it. "I believe it was your idea that I find a job for him, wasn't it?"

"Of course it was! Anything to get him away from the notion of settling down in that village office of his father. But I took it for granted that his education would fit him for some sort of an executive position with an office of his own. I won't endure it, I say! I'm not sure Jeffrey will either, if he finds he has to depend on his little pay envelope for his spending money. He has expensive tastes and practically nothing with which to back them up."

Harvey Harrison sat up with a jerk. There was a cutting edge to his voice that Olive seldom heard. "Let me tell you something, young woman. I have made two generous marriage settlements on you. It is too late to do anything about it, except warn you now that they'll never be a third. I have a great admiration for Castle. Your empty-headed son seems to think that marriage is some sort of a game with side trips to Reno thrown in. If you have something like that in the back of your mind again, understand once and for all that you're going to do the dirty work. You'll hire the lawyers and pay the bills. No more of it for the old man. I've some regard for my station, too."

For several weeks after that there was an armed truce between the younger Castles. For the most part, the topic of Jeffrey's new job was tacitly ignored. Several times he had spoken admiringly of the corporation that had its agents in almost every civilized country on the globe. He was enjoying his work, too. Olive was waiting for a time to put the situation to a test.

It came one Friday afternoon when there was a suggestion of spring in the air, a day when any lover of the outdoors would be longing for freedom. Dressed in a becoming sports costume, Mrs. Castle appeared in the lobby of the Harrison Products office and smilingly inquired of the information clerk where she could find the sales department.

Olive had pictured the general sales manager as a wizened elderly gentleman with sharp features, who talked in terms of discounts. She was rather startled when she was ushered into the presence of a huge man with a smiling florid face, who hoisted himself from between the arms of his swivel chair with some effort. "How do you do, Mrs.

"I'd much rather you didn't." She hurried out, leaving him standing where he was.

Jeffrey followed more slowly, without glancing in the direction of the stenographer who was staring curiously.

Out in the hall he met Michelson returning. "Hope you have a nice game, Castle. I wouldn't mind going eighteen holes this afternoon myself."

"Funny thing," Jeff returned in a flat voice, "Mrs. Castle got her dates mixed. Thought this was Saturday. Good joke, wasn't it?"

With the advent of spring, life seemed to get back more nearly into its old cycles for Audrey Swan. Jim Sweet had taken over the cultivation of the farm in capable fashion, the coming of mild weather also brought a number of riding pupils, and the loose boxes in the large barn opened their doors to arriving equine

"You have your boss's permission," Olive said

Castle?" he boomed hospitably. "Is there something I can do for you?"

"Just a little bit of a favor," she explained coaxingly. "It's so beautiful out this afternoon that I have arranged for a foursome of golf at the country club. But I'll simply have to borrow my husband. Do you mind?"

"Oh, I see," Mr. Michelson was slightly taken aback. "Why, I should think we can let you have him."

"You are a nice man! Now if you'd tell me where I can find him, I won't bother you another second. Thank you so much."

"I was just going out to the main room," he explained. "If you will make yourself comfortable here, I'll ask Mr. Castle to come over."

Jeffrey appeared almost at once. He was in his shirt sleeves, his vest was unbuttoned and he had a pencil behind one ear. "Hello!" He said in mild surprise, closing the door. "What's up?"

"Get your things. You're going out with me," his wife directed briefly.

"Going out? What's happened? Anything wrong?"

"Nothing serious. You're going out to the country club to fill in a foursome. Please hurry. We haven't any too much time."

"But this is Friday, isn't it?" Jeffrey looked puzzled.

"What of it?"

"Saturday is my half holiday. Not Friday?"

"Don't always be tiresome. It's all right with your boss. You have his permission."

This brought a steady stare from Jeffrey's brown eyes. "Let's get this straight," he suggested quietly. "Are you telling me that you came down here to tell Mr. Michelson you were taking me golfing?"

"Yes. Why?"

"Well it was kind of you. But naturally I'm not going. What would he think of me. . . . not to mention the other guys here? No thanks."

"Consideration for me comes last all the time now, doesn't it? You don't worry about what anyone thinks of me. Are you coming? It's the last time."

"Is the car out in front? I'll take you down."

boarders. Once more there were horses grazing in the big pasture and taking their turns at exercising on the track.

In the house, Martha Swan went about her usual tasks. There was the spring house cleaning to supervise and her flower garden to be put in order with the aid of faithful Julia.

Victor Quinn was still a frequent and welcome visitor. Audrey turned to him naturally for advice in every matter that bothered her and he was conscious that they were growing closer as the time passed.

He would have felt highly encouraged had he known how lonely Audrey was on one occasion when business took him away for a matter of two weeks. She was rather startled at the discovery, herself, and it was surprisingly difficult not to reveal in an impulsive fashion her pleasure at his return.

"I believe you're really glad to see me," he had teased when they met.

"What makes you think so?" she smiled.

"Your nose told me."

"You mustn't believe in signs." So matters stood one June morning when Audrey was called to the telephone and heard: "Audrey? This is Mrs. Castle speaking. How are you?"

"Why. . . . why, I'm quite well, thank you."

"The Judge happened to find out yesterday that tomorrow is Mr. Quinn's birthday. I thought it might be nice if we had him out for dinner in honor of the occasion, and I want very much to have you as our other guest. Now please don't refuse, my dear."

Audrey was thinking swiftly and reaching a conclusion before Mrs. Castle had finished. It would not be fair to Vic to refuse. "I shall be very glad to come," she answered.

"Thank you, my dear. I shall send Dean for you about seven-thirty. And if you don't mind, I shall not tell Victor. It will be a little surprise. Thank you so much. Good bye."

When the chauffeur deposited her at the front door of the big house, it developed that Victor had not yet arrived, and Audrey experienced something of a shock when Mrs. Castle accompanied her up to the dressing room near the head of the stairs.

The older woman had changed perceptibly. She seemed much smaller and there was almost a suggestion of frailty. But there was a more subtle change, a touch of wistfulness in her quiet voice. And it showed in her eyes when she remarked: "I am so glad you could come, Audrey. The Judge and I live here so quietly that it seems delightful to have young people in the house again. We have both become very fond of Victor."

Audrey understood then. It was Jeff. His mother had not seen him since he went back to the city to stay and she was denied any hope of his return.

Victor was in the drawing room chatting with the Judge when Audrey appeared in the doorway with Mrs. Castle. Blank amazement and pleasure were in his face as he hurried forward, and Audrey felt a trifle self-conscious as she tried to greet him lightly. "Many happy returns of the day, Mr. Quinn."

Victor recovered sufficiently to greet his hostess properly. "I didn't know it was a party!" he exclaimed boyishly. "This is great! I haven't had a birthday party since I was a little shaver."

"This is no party at all," Mrs. Castle smiled. "It's only a little family dinner. And I believe it's served."

That explanation lingered oddly in Audrey's mind as Judge Castle seated her while Victor was performing the same courtesy for his hostess. Only four places set at the square table. Candles at each corner giving a subdued light, touching the dull polish on the table top, the rich but simple service. A maid waited on the guests tonight. The butler was not in evidence. It was a family dinner.

After a quiet period of conversation in the Judge's library afterwards, the two guests took their departure with Victor driving Audrey home in his car. It was Victor who voiced the thought that was uppermost in their minds when they found themselves alone. "You know Audrey there was something rather pathetic about our little party, pleasant as it was."

"I know," she agreed in a low voice. "They were both trying to be gallant, but they're lonely."

"Quite different from our last dinner there. It will be a year next week."

"You thought of it, too?"

"Rather. It was a very important night for me. I met a Miss Swan there and I've never been able to get her out of my mind since."

This Center Hall Saves Precious Space

NO one has ever denied the value and comfort of a center hall, although space-economy has often eliminated it from the small house plan.

Here, however, is a very small house with a space-saving—not a space-wasting—center hall, which actually makes this compact house larger and more commodious without spending an extra inch of precious floor area.

Notice how Randolph Evans, its architect, who designed it for the Monthly Small House Club, 140 Nassau Street, New York City, has achieved this plan-miracle. For one thing, he has combined both the entry and the bedroom halls so that one hall serves both purposes. Secondly, he has brought his cellar stairs out of the kitchen—where the door opening on them necessarily would occupy valuable wall space—and placed them in the hall. And, finally, he has placed his hall in space that could be used for no other purpose. It is in the very middle of the house—unlighted except for two attractive, though inexpensive panels of glass blocks flanking the front door.

Up under the colorful, protecting asphalt shingles which cover the entire roof, is space for two more bedrooms and a bath—in case the family needs more room. In the meantime, this space may be conveniently used as a playroom or study.

Though not large, this house also sports a "luxury" bathroom, costing not a cent more than an ordinary bathroom. It has three walls and floor finished in sparkling tile; the fourth wall is constructed entirely of hollow Insulux glass blocks with inset ventilating louvers. These, being on the outside, flood the room with diffused daylight. They help, incidentally, to keep the room cleaner, for people are tidier in bright, well-lighted rooms. And don't be alarmed at their cost, for the architect has found that a panel of glass blocks is less expensive than a tile finished wall.

Mr. Evans has roofed the entire house with fire-resistant asphalt shingles in that very fashionable shade of brown-copper brown. These long-lived and economical shingles, with their surfaces of crisp, richly hued granules, distribute tiny lights and shadows over the entire roof, giving it greater depth and richness.

The house, sized comfortably to a fifty foot wide lot, can be built in most parts of the country for about $4,500, exclusive of land.

***Now is the time to get your heating apparatus overhauled and put in good condition for the heavy use the coming cold weather will put on it. Also see about your insurance against fire risk. Joe Welch can fix this up for you.

HAVE you ever thought of your bank as a citizen, taxpayer, employer and consumer? Your bank strives to be a good citizen — to render a useful service for a moderate remuneration. AS A TAXPAYER, your bank pays heavy sums to your community, your province and the Dominion — Canada's chartered banks paid over $9,000,000 last year alone; $42,000,000 in the last five years. AS AN EMPLOYER your bank and other chartered banks in Canada furnish employment to thousands of persons who are an asset of real value to the Community and to the Dominion. The banks paid last year over $35,000,000 in wages — in the last five years, $174,000,000 — a direct distribution of buying power all over Canada. The value of the services rendered by our men and women workers cannot be appraised in dollars. Their efficiency, courtesy and integrity are largely responsible for the goodwill and pleasant relations between Canada's chartered banks and the people they serve. AS A CONSUMER the bank is a customer of your utilities — water, light, power; it pays rent, buys fuel, office equipment, telephone and telegraph services, everything needed in modern business.

In war, as in peace, Canada's Chartered Banks maintain, uninterrupted, their useful services — safeguarding depositors' funds; facilitating the nation's business — looking forward to peace with freedom as the only sure basis of enduring prosperity.

small expense. Here are blouses to help along the good work. The first is of taffeta in brilliant plaid in purple, green, red and yellow.
The high plaid yoke is drawn into a huge bow at the neck, and the sleeves are long and tight. Nice as an over-blouse or worn tucked in. The second model is of champagne colored taffeta and would be smart with a daytime skirt or a pencil slim evening skirt.

WARTIME PROGRAMME CAN. HEALTH LEAGUE

The wartime programme of the Health League of Canada was recently announced by the Board of Directors. The programme includes a four-fold aim: (1) safeguarding the health of industrial workers; (2) combating venereal disease; (3) education in nutrition; and (4) the preventing of communicable diseases such as diphtheria.

Officials of the Health League pointed out that in wartime Canadian factories face the increased production and workmen will be asked to double their efforts. Increased strain

RAILWAY EMPLOYEES AID WAR EFFORT

IN every part of Canada served by the Canadian National Railways men and women of the staff are engaged in supporting Canada's war effort, undertaking enterprises of various kinds apart from their daily work and in leisure time. This includes aid for the Red Cross, canteen services, the preparation of comforts for naval, army and air forces, both at home and abroad. Pilots of Trans-Canada Air Lines are voluntarily giving their services to instruct candidates for the RCAF and there are numerous instances of operators and station agents acting as instructors for youths desirous of learning the mysteries of the telegraph key. In the illustration is shown an example of this, the photograph being taken in Winnipeg where Percy Whitebread, of the Canadian National Telegraph, and Mrs. Whitebread are contributing all of their spare time to teaching telegraphy to a number of young men who later hope to qualify as wireless operators in the Air Force or in the naval or army services. These boys are keen on their task and promise to be first class operators. In the photograph

Mr. Whitebread is shown at the key, Mrs. Whitebread on his right, with the students grouped in class.

will place a burden on labor. Anxious that the utmost precautions be exercised so that Canada's war effort may contribute in a notable way toward final victory, the League has set up an industrial committee which will at once study problems relating to the health of the workers.

Considerable success in the prevention and combatting of venereal disease has already been achieved by the League, acting as an educational body in co-operation with government bodies. Right now a medical committee of the League is seeking to improve methods for the treatment of venereal disease cases. A campaign of education directed toward the public is now being discussed by the various committees.

The need of teaching parents how to buy, cook and serve the most nutritious kinds of foods is occupying the League just at present. Classes in nutrition are being formed, this fall and winter in Toronto and suburban areas. Radio talks and leaflets are also planned.

The complete elimination of diphtheria in Canada is an ultimate goal of the League. Already in several municipalities the disease has been practically eliminated. In several centres there hasn't been a case for years. Diphtheria is one of the preventable diseases.

What has been accomplished by the Prime Minister of Ontario, Hon.
Mitchell F. Hepburn, and his Minister of Health, Hon. Harold Kirby, in putting into effect in Ontario legislation that makes compulsory the pasteurization of all milk sold should be adopted by every province in Canada, Health League officials contend.
Formation of a national committee for education along these lines is now under consideration.

Illness in Canada can be reduced 50 per cent. according to League officials. The tremendous wastage in money, energy and lives must be stopped, they declare.

A large number of our readers will sympathize with Mrs. G. L. Hudson, a former resident here for a number of years, in the death of her mother, Mrs. F. O. Pike, which occurred at the latter's home in Vermilion on Thursday last. The deceased lady was 86 years old, and last year celebrated with Mr. Pike her diamond wedding anniversary.

Geo. Reynolds reports a splendid sale at the Bessley farm on Monday, with prices ruling good all through the list.

Mrs. Harold Brunner is staying in Edmonton for a week or two with Mrs. Barney Buckle.

We are glad to learn that little Billy Baxter, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Baxter, of town, who was taken suddenly ill last week with an emergent attack of appendicitis, and was indeed very sick, is now coming along as nicely as can be expected. He is still a patient at the hospital.

Nice results were obtained from the efforts of the ladies of St. Andrew's (Pres.) church at their annual bazaar held on Saturday last in the I. O. O. F. hall. Afternoon tea was served, too, and many were the enjoyable minutes spent over the tea-cups by the visitors attending.

No doubt a number of our readers will regret to learn of the untimely passing of the Rev. Geo. McDonald, of Edmonton, who died in the city following an operation last week. He has preached in the United church in town on one or two occasions.

It was a treat to see Postmaster Lally on the street last week for a short while, and we are glad to know that he is recovering, although may be only slowly.

Owing to the severe cold, Mr. Joe Welch was a "day-a-bed" for a day or two over the week end, but he is feeling some better now.

SURPLUS FOR PROVINCE SHOWN IN REPORT

An all-over cash surplus of $797,496, exclusive of the new borrowings and debt redemption, was shown in interim financial report of the Alberta government for the six months ended September 30. The report was published Saturday by Hon. Solon Lou, provincial treasurer.

This surplus was $614,896 greater than that of the corresponding period last year, when the surplus was $182,600, the statement said. The increase in surplus was mainly due to decreased payments for unemployment relief and to earlier transfer of profits by the Alberta Liquor Control Board.

General report of operations for the period showed that cash receipts from ordinary sources totalled $13,135,504 as against $12,447,480, an increase of $688,024.

Cash payments for ordinary services were $10,055,600 as compared with $9,269,448, an increase of $786,152.

Also deducted from the cash receipts are payments for unemployment relief and the net capital expenditures, leaving the over-all cash surplus noted above.

Unemployment relief net payments were $680,077 as against $1,145,084 for the corresponding period last year, a decrease of $465,006.

BRITAIN USES SECRET WEAPON IN WARFARE

Great Britain used a "secret weapon" in the smashing attack on the Italian navy at Taranto, it was asserted by British sources which described the weapon as highly satisfactory.

Some British experts thought the new weapon would revolutionize warfare in the Mediterranean zone to the advantage of the British.

The attack on Taranto harbor, which I witnessed from a cruiser in the British Mediterranean fleet, sank or crippled seven Italian warships, including three battleships, according to official statements.

The fleet has completed a 3,000 miles sweep of the Mediterranean during which they showed overwhelming superiority against the Italian fleet, British officers said.

Latest type British fighters, attached to the air arm, successfully defended British aircraft carriers against Italian dive bombers.

Messages of congratulation were pouring in on H.M.S. Illustrious, the aircraft carrier from which the raid on Taranto was conducted.
